Hatton Canyon highway controversy flares up again

MODEL OF THE RECENTLY approved proposal for the Hatton Canyon Scenic Highway, by-passing Highway 1 from Carmel Hill to Rio Road near the Carmel River. Highway 1 is shown here as a secondary road, which it will become, if the proposal is enacted. The model is on display at Carmel City Hall.

BY BILL BECHTOLD

The "Hatton Canyon Freeway" or "Hatton Canyon Scenic Highway" is a controversial proposal.

It was controversial in 1966, when it was proposed and voted down, and it is controversial now, when it is being revived.

Two weeks ago, on June 3, the Carmel City Council voted unanimously to request the State of California "to expedite the construction of the Hatton Valley Scenic Highway in accordance with the plans and model prepared by the Division of Highways."

There are many divergent points of view concerning the construction of a roadway in the Hatton Canyon. However, most admit that some type of road is necessary, and the current plan is viewed as a more acceptable modification of the original design which was rejected in 1966 by the City Council, also unanimously.

The present proposal calls for a "scenic-highway" (Please don't call it a freeway," said City Clerk Hugh Bayless) to run through Hatton Canyon from Carmel Hill, where the present Monterey "scenic-highway-freeway" ends, to an area near the Carmel River where it will meet more "scenic-highway"—of the two-lane variety.

MOTIVATION

What lies behind the motivation of the City Council to revive the project at this time? Mayor Barney Laiolo says that because it will take two years, at a minimum, to get any action on it from the State Highway Division, the City should act now with an eye toward the future increase of traffic and accidents on Route 1, which is already overcrowded on summer weekends.

The main objection, the Mayor continued, to the original 1966 proposal was that it called for a continuation of the Monterey freeway down to the Carmel River south of the City. "With the current modification to a 'scenic highway' the picture changed completely," he said.

However, Bruce Langford, Scenic-Highway Engineer of the California State Division of Highways, pointed out that the present Monterey freeway is considered a "scenic-highway" and that the current proposal would extend that same road, all four lanes, through the Hatton Canyon to Rio Road, just north of the Carmel River. It would be a limited access highway with a speed limit of 65 mph.

MAINTAIN BEAUTY

Nevertheless, Langford was at pains to point out, because of its "scenic-highway" status, "we will do as much as we possibly can to maintain the contour and beauty of the surroundings. This means a minimum of cutting, grading and filling plus the careful landscaping of the adjacent right-of-way."

Hugh Bayless commented that the proposal arose at this time as part of the Carmel City Council's annual consideration of highway priorities. The right-of-way was acquired years ago, and even now it will still be five or six years at the earliest before ground is broken for construction—that is, if the State Highway Division puts the road on its priority list.

Eben Whittlesey, City Councilman who voted against the highway in 1966, said that "at that time we were in no hurry for any highway. But because of the increase in traffic, we are forced to consider the future and make plans for it. Also, the tremendous cuts and fills, which were called for in the original proposal have been modified. In the present plan the divided highway allows for two levels of roadway when necessary to avoid excessive land-cutting.

FORESTED CANYON

Hatton Canyon lies to the east of Highway 1 about ½ mile and winds its way down from the High Meadows area to the Carmel Valley. It is heavily forested, steep and largely undeveloped. There are those in the community who do not want to see it have a concrete bottom.

Among these people is Gunnar Norberg, former City Councilman, who doubts the necessity of any road through Hatton Canyon. He sees the accommodation of increasing traffic as an invitation to further increases, and feels that if a motorist is tied up in a traffic-jam one weekend, he'll think twice about returning the next.

In general agreement with the opposition to the current plan is the Sierra Club. At a recent meeting of the Monterey County Planning Commission, a spokesman for the club, James Demetry, said that the club encourages alternative proposals which would "make unnecessary the construction of a fullscale freeway down Hatton Canyon."

This statement was in reference to the County Planning Commission's approval of a 3.7 mile road connecting the Carmel Valley Road to the Monterey-Salinas Highway about 3.5 miles east of Highway 1. This proposed road, Canada de la Segunda, some argue, would relieve enough traffic from Route 1 to avoid the need to construct a large freeway in Hatton Canyon.

QUESTIONABLE

However, the degree of relief that the Canada de la Segunda would provide is very questionable. James Larson of the State Division of Highways believes that the effect "would not be that great," and engineer Langford stated that he "can't accept the assertion that the proposed Canada de la Segunda would make that much difference in the total congestion of Route 1 in the Carmel area."

Larson also offered State Highway statistics which revealed that 19,000 cars presently use the Route 1 local stretch on an average day. Projecting this figure according to past increases and future area growth, Larson predicted that the number would triple (57,000 cars) by 1990. The proposed Hatton Canyon Highway would relieve approximately 75 per cent of this traffic.

Larson related other statistics about the present status of the traffic which were less alarming. The number of accidents on Highway 1 between July 1, 1966 and June 30, 1969, was 262, of which 79 involved death or injury. This figure is only slightly above the State average for rural two-land roads for this distance. However, Larson did caution that these figures were also subject to "rise sharply in the next few years unless the Hatton Canyon Highway can be allowed to absorb the majority of the current Route 1 traffic."

FISHER OBJECTS

Admiral C. W. Fisher, president of the Carmel Citizens' Committee, agrees that Highway 1 alone is insufficient to handle the growing traffic in the area. However, he and the Committee object strongly to the idea of a "high-speed road running down through Hatton Canyon." He told the Pine Cone that other roads are necessary to relieve the congestion on Highway 1, but "that a road wide enough and straight enough to allow cars to cruise at 65 or 70 mph would ruin too much of the natural beauty of the canyon.

"According to the State Highway Division, it is possible to have a 'scenic-highway' with a 90 mph speed limit. We are opposed to this and will continue to oppose it." Fisher believes that it would be wiser to construct a number of smaller, slower roads all acting as alternatives to the present route, instead of trying to accomplish the traffic relief with one large "highway-freeway."

Property owners with homes in the immediate area of the proposed highway seem generally resigned to the fact that it is necessary. Judson Sherrill, President of the Carmel Knolls Property Owners' Association, said that he had "no objection to the proposal. It is inevitable with the traffic congestion on

Hatton Fields homeowners battle new plan for subdivision

A group of embattled Hatton Fields homeowners is waging a last-ditch fight to prevent a developer from getting permission to build twice the number of homes on a 4-acre piece of property than is allowed under existing law.

The developer, Floyd Carter, won a variance ruling recently from the County Planning Commission to double the number of home sites allowed on the land he owns. This was granted despite the appeals and petitions of the overwhelming majority of residents in the area.

Carter went before the Planning Commission on May 27 with an application to rezone his 4.3-acre parcel, lying between Mesa Drive and Highway 1, just north of the lower end of Hatton Road in Hatton Fields. His application called for a reduction from 20,000 sq. ft. minimum to 10,000 sq. ft. minimum per lot on the land, thereby allowing him sixteen home sites on the property instead of the normal 8.

Sixteen Hatton Fields residents were present at the hearing, eight of whom rose to speak. In addition, a petition was presented which included 120 signatures of adult residents in the Hatton Fields area. Nevertheless, the application was approved by the Planning Commission and sent for submission to the County Board of Supervisors.

The major point in opposition is that the proposed rezoning is a violation of the existing and established character of the surrounding area on this side of Highway 1. This area was given its present zoning five years ago, and the homeowners maintain the reasons for that zoning are still considered valid.

With the exception of three highly constructed lots to the immediate south of the parcel in question, and a group of 8 lots at the north end of Mesa Drive, all of the parcels west of Highway 1 in this area are compatible with the present 20,000 sq. ft. minimum zoning, and the character of the neighborhood is one of ample, well-spaced home sites.

Adm. C.W. Fisher, president of the Carmel Citizens' Committee, declared his Committee's agreement with the local residents. He cited three reasons for this viewpoint:

1. Hatton Fields as presently constituted, is made up of large lots. A 20,000 square foot minimum prevails and several lots are more than one acre. To grant this 10,000 square foot request will have the effect of down-grading the area.
2. If this rezoning is approved a precedent will be established which will make the splitting of other Hatton Fields lots much easier. The long term effect will be gradual elimination of a rural, forested type of suburb.
3. No new factors have entered the picture since 1966 when the four acre tract was zoned to 20,000 square feet. The zoning was right in 1966 and is right in 1970.

Presently, homeowners in the area are collecting even more signatures on a protest petition. They already have nearly 90 percent of those living in Hatton Fields represented. Many of the residents are out of town and unavailable to sign.

The County Board of Supervisors meets Tuesday to rule on the final zoning of the property.

Highway 1 and the future increase of that congestion."

Mason M. Rhodes, a resident of Carmel Knolls, whose property is in the immediate vicinity of the State right-of-way for the future highway, is concerned about keeping the road "as far down in the canyon as possible and keeping the speed limit to a 45 mph maximum." This way, he said, "we can be assured of minimum cutting and filling in the construction." Other area homeowners claimed that they "weren't overly happy with the proposal, but could see its necessity."

WHAT NEXT?

What happens next to the Hatton Canyon Highway is up to the California State Highway Division. They have control over construction timetables and final authority of plans. If they decide to put the proposed Hatton Canyon route on their priority list, it will still probably be years before any physical action is taken. Meanwhile, citizens throughout the Carmel area continue to debate the recent City Council move.

The most recent development occurred Tuesday morning at the meeting of the County Board of Supervisors. Bert Rudolph of Carmel appeared before the Board and advised them of the recent Carmel City Council resolution. Supervisor Willard Branson evinced surprise at the City Council's move to resurrect the highway plan, and the Board referred the matter to him for study. Branson said he planned to take "a long look at the measure and study it in detail."

The County Board of Supervisors can, if they choose, ask the State Highway Division to either accept or defer the Carmel City Council's recommendation.

In general, however, opposition to the plan of paving the bottom of Hatton Canyon seems to have diminished over the past four years. The total effects of this measure on the community will not be realized for at least four more years and probably longer.

HIGH THOUGHTS

"I am, darling," the young man smiled indulgently. "The cost of living."

the mayor's report

By BARNEY LAIOLO

This Thursday night, the 18th of June will be "Town Hall" night for the "Business People" of Carmel at the Carmel Business Association dinner meeting. There will be a representation of people from City and County Government on the panel. Their aim will be to answer questions from the floor by interested parties with reference to Carmel's future.

I feel this is a real example of democracy in action and I welcome the opportunity to be a part of it.

Many persons have asked about name signs on streets. Bill Askew informs me that pilot signs are being installed and will be judged by the Council and interested city officials.

There is increasing interest in annexation to Carmel and work in this line is proceeding well. People are beginning to realize that the increased police, fire and street service and a lesser insurance cost are worthy of consideration. I welcome them as part of the family.

A consideration has been presented to the Planning Commission to explore the possibility of requiring design approval of all portions of business structures in the commercial zone which are visible from any public street. This would relate well to our recent business license law recently passed.

I was pleased to see that some flags were flown on Flag Day -- a good sign. Let's keep it up.

Our pamphlets to visitors are being distributed and this program will be in full swing this week.

May Peace and Happiness prevail.

Board imposes $3 per month sewer charge to pay for plant

BY WM. BECHTOLD

In a surprise move Tuesday night the Carmel District Sanitary Board passed an ordinance calling for a $36 per year additional "sewer-service charge" for each single family dwelling in the District.

The ordinance also stipulates a special charge of 50 percent of the water bill to be added each month to the normal bill for all commercial structures.

Arrangements have already been made with the California American Water Company to add the charge to the monthly water bills. This will come to $3 per month for family dwellings, and for commercial businesses it will vary with their monthly consumption of water.

Harold Arnot, president of the Board, said Wednesday that the charge was instituted to defer the cost of the new construction at the treatment plant.

Last week the Board called for a $2.5 million bond issue to finance the construction. If the issue passes, the new service charge monies will be used to redeem the bond. If the issue fails, the service charge will still take effect, and the income will be used to finance the construction directly.

Arnot said that the Board felt that the charge was a more equitable way of distributing the cost of construction than by raising the current sanitary tax, which is based on assessed valuation of property. "By charging businesses according to the amount of water they use," he said, "we are basing our charge on venefits, rather than assessed valuation. Thus, a business like a laundry, which uses quite a bit of water, would pay proportionately.

"We estimate that this service charge will bring in about $200,000 per year. Our current share of the property tax for this year is 34c per $100 of assessed valuation. This will continue and be used for maintainance costs of the sewage treatment plant."

If the additional income estimate is correct, it will take 12 to 15 years to redeem the $2.5 million bond, depending on interest rates and redemption timetables.

The Sanitary Board is locally autonomous and has the power to tax without getting authorization from either the City of Carmel or the County Board of Supervisors.

Even so, many local officials registered surprise at the swift, unexpected action of the board. James Peter Cost, president of the Carmel Business Association was "astounded that they could do this."

Mayor Barney Laiolo and City Clerk Hugh Bayless were equally taken aback by the lack of any warning or earlier hearings by the Sanitary Board.

Admiral C.W. Fisher, president of the Carmel Citizens' Committee, told the Pine Cone that "while the Committee has not yet had a chance to analyze the figures involved, the service charge seems to be the logical and sensible way of footing the cost of the impending construction."

The Board is presently preparing a letter which will be sent to each resident and business in the sanitary district. The letter will explain the Board's action and analyze the cost factors which prompted the move.

The new sewer service charge is scheduled to begin in September.

Carmel library link to county may be cut

At Carmel's Harrison Memorial Library, MOBAC is more than simply another formidable-sounding acronym. It stands for the Monterey Bay Area Cooperative Library System and provides the structure that links the Carmel library to the facilities of the five other libraries in the Bay Area. That structure may be threatened by a fund cutoff.

The Monterey County Library, the Monterey Public Library, and the libraries of Salinas, Pacific Grove, Carmel, and Santa Cruz compose MOBAC.

MOBAC was begun in January 1969 through the use of $50,000 in state and federal funds for the purpose of instituting cooperative circulation among neighboring libraries. Thus far, the money has enabled MOBAC to purchase a delivery truck, hire a driver, institute an intercom system between the libraries and buy films, prints, and record albums previously unavailable at the smaller libraries.

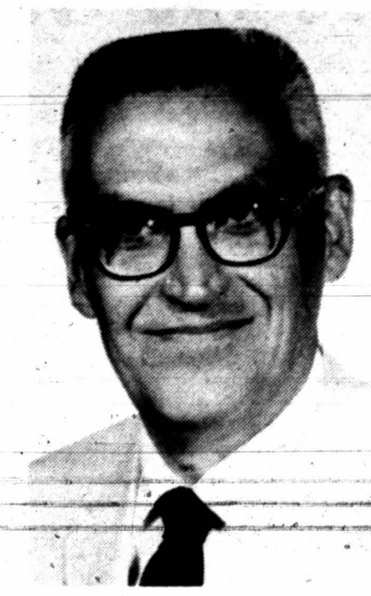
MOBAC works like this: a potential borrower needs a book or a periodical which the local library does not have. By filling out a card, he can find out within a day if the material is at any of the Bay Area libraries. If it is, he will have the book with the information. If not, he may request a check with the tylines to the State Library and their resources.

The MOBAC delivery truck leaves the Salinas Public Library every morning, picking up and delivering for Carmel, Pacific Grove, Monterey and (once a week) Santa Cruz. This makes it possible for library card holders to use their privileges at any of the member libraries, either taking books out or dropping them off.

The only danger to MOBAC is that in January 1971 the state and federal funds stop. Unless the member libraries through their local governments can come up with the money needed to continue the system, MOBAC will have to cut back or completely curtail its operations.

According to Mrs. Allene Fremier, acting librarian at the Harrison Library, the funding required would be considerably less than the original $25,000 per year awarded by the state and federal governments, since much of the money was used for initial outlays for a truck and the intercom system.

Neale new pastor at Wayfarer



Herbert W. Neale will become the new pastor of the Church of the Wayfarer beginning in July. Rev. Neale comes to Carmel from his current duties in Fresno.

There will be a farewell party honoring the outgoing pastor, Rev. Alex Bryans, on Friday, June 26, at 6:30 p.m. at the Carmel Valley Country Club.

In a recent farewell letter to his parishioners, Rev. Bryans said: "It is hard to believe that we have been here for four and one-half years. They have been years of warm friendship in the life of this church, and we shall always treasure them. This has been a relationship of love in so many, many ways, and I feel a tug as I write you now."

Dinner reservations may be made in the Church Office until June 23.

the conscience of Carmel

BY GUNNAR NORBERG

THE TIME IS NOW

Last month the City Council unanimously directed the City Planning Commission to report on a set of proposals to control building sites, sizes and uses in the business district of Carmel. The report was long overdue, having been requested initially by the City Council in 1967. Early this year the proposals appeared tentatively at the end of a long Planning Commission agenda, but the Commission adjourned before dealing with them.

It was a rumored purchase by an out-of-town buyer of an entire square block in the Carmel business district which led to the new order to the Planning Commission to speed its recommendations on the control proposals. Planning Commission Chairman Olof Dahlstrand named a committee last month to consider the proposals, but so far it has not made its report.

The time to act on these proposals is now. Every month of delay leaves the way open for the kind of out-sized business structures and out-of-scale business uses which could seriously threaten what Admiral C. W. Fisher (USN, Ret.), Citizens' Committee head, has so appropriately called the "small, intimate, charming character" of much of Carmel's shopping area.

And just what, you ask, are those proposals? And just what is it that they would be expected to accomplish?

One proposal would set a definite maximum limit on the size of a site to be used as the location of a business building, and it would establish the maximum percentage of that site which could be used for the building to be located on it. The suggested site limit is 8,000 square feet, and the suggested percentage maximum of the site to be allocated to the building is 70 per cent. (This suggested site limit and percentage ratio was originally presented to the City Council more than ten years ago by Admiral Fisher. Action now, therefore, could hardly be called precipitate!)

Since the usual business block in Carmel contains 80,000 square feet, the Fisher formula would require at least ten separate business buildings on at least ten separate sites within such a block. The Fisher formula, therefore, would definitely stop future construction of any block-sized, or even half-block-sized buildings anywhere in the business section of Carmel. Use of the percentage-of-site yardstick with regard to sizes of business buildings, would also leave some open spaces for landscaping purposes.

Under existing city law, a single business building could be as long as 400 feet and as wide as 150 feet, and could occupy more than half the whole area of a usual city block. The existing restriction simply says a single building may not extend more than 80 feet on any one side of a block, before starting to set back 50 feet from the sidewalk.

The second proposal, which was originally referred to the Planning Commission back in 1967 along with the site-and-size scheme just mentioned, concerned motels. It was in two parts, and it was intended to discourage the establishment of any more motels. (It was felt that existing motels which could accommodate over 2,000 overnight guests, were all the transient accommodations the City of Carmel—with less than 5,000 permanent residents—should have to absorb).

The first part of the motel proposal simply suggested that no new motel be allowed to establish itself "within one block, or 500 feet, whichever is farther" of any already existing motel. Because of the numerous motels already here, this would make establishment of any new one at least difficult.

The second part of the motel-control proposal, would merely increase to 2,000 or 1,500 the number of square feet of ground area which would have to be assigned to each motel unit. Twelve years ago, Carmel wrote into law the requirement that a minimum of 1,000 square feet had to be assigned to each unit. Since then, there has been much talk, but no action on the idea of expanding the square-foot-per-unit requirement for any new motels that might seek to establish themselves in Carmel.

Purchase of block-sized parcels of Carmel's business district by out-of-town buyers, unfamiliar with Carmel values or disinterested in their perpetuation, could quickly lead to destruction of Carmel's distinctive charm, if legal steps are not taken in time to prevent such a catastrophic eventuality.

The time for both Planning Commission and City Council to act on these long-pending control proposals, is now.

Cliff Phelps to open coffee house in Carmel

Cliff Phelps is an energetic, gray-bearded Carmel businessman who is "tired of seeing the kids of this town ignored." Owner of Singapore Sam's on Ocean Avenue, he has been a Carmel resident for over 22 years. Now he is in the process of opening a unique Carmel addition: a coffee house, Latitude 36, which will front on 6th Avenue on the corner of Mission.

"The coffee house will be for the kids and, hopefully, run by them too," Phelps predicted. "They will have a place of their own, where they will not be crowded out by older people and tourists."

The premises of Latitude 36 are still being decorated. Since the construction crew consists of Cliff Phelps and "whoever else is handy," and since Phelps' right arm is injured from a previous accident, the work is progressing slowly.

The necessary licenses and permits are all in order, the space is available, even the outside has been painted and lettered. So, once the interior is finished (with minor plumbing alterations), it will open its doors.

Phelps says that he is not interested in showing a profit on the coffee house. In fact, he feels he will be lucky if he simply breaks even. "The primary purpose of this whole thing is for the young people of Carmel to have a place where they aren't considered a nuisance. I am doing what I can to help them."

There is, Phelps thinks, much hypocrisy exhibited by many members of the Carmel community when dealing with young people whose dress or hair may not conform to "acceptable Carmel standards."

"Unwarranted police harrassment of many kids in Carmel is a common occurrence," Phelps stated. "The kids will not be harrassed in Latitude 36."

The coffee house will seat 60-65 people, serve non-alcoholic beverages and cold-plate food. It will be open every night until midnight.

Initially, Phelps will manage the establishment by himself. But eventually he hopes to turn the entire operation over to the patrons themselves.

As the first coffee house in Carmel, it fills a need which has been recognized by many people, including the Carmel City Council, which recently rejected a proposal for a city-operated coffee house, stating that it "is a matter for private enterprise."

Wayfarer Church women install officers

The Women's Society of Christian Service of the Church of the Wayfarer held a luncheon meeting which included the installation of new officers on June 11. Chairman of the meeting was the outgoing president of the Society, Mrs. F. William Hellman of Carmel. Hostesses were Ruth Circle and Mrs. J Friedman, and devotions were led by Mrs. Fred L. Farley.

The new officers for the group are: president, Mrs. Lester Bringsjord; vice-president, Mrs. Joseph Reeves; secretary, Mrs. Harold Monaghan; and treasurer, Miss Effie Theobald. All are Carmel residents.

In addition, the following committee chairmen were announced: Program, Mrs. Joseph Reeves; Christian Social Concerns, Mrs. Leslie Dixon; Missionary Education, Mrs. Robert Catlett; Spiritual Growth, Mrs. F. Senior citizens tax assistance here July 8

A representative of the Franchise Tax Board will be in Monterey on July 18 to assist California senior citizens in filing claims for benefits under the Senior Citizens Property Tax Assistance Law. The representative will be at the Council Chambers, City Hall, Madison and Pacific, on Wednesday, July 8, from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

The new law provides for a reimbursement of a portion of the property taxes paid by Californians who are over 65 years of age, own and reside in their own homes, who have paid the property taxes for the current year, and who have income of $3,350 or less.

Who is going to occupy Bank building?

The Pine Cone learned this week that a number of business interests are interested in purchasing the Crocker-Citizens Building on the corner of Ocean and Dolores. The building will be vacated by the bank sometime in the near future, when the facilities will be moved to the current Purity Market property on 6th and Mission.

But there is one catch for any prospective buyers of the bank building: they will have to negotiate with Douglas Glinden of Pebble Beach who reportedly picked up the first-refusal rights on the property recently.

It was rumored earlier in the week that one of the interested buyers was the Saks Fifth Avenue Department Store. However, this is unconfirmed.

Crocker-Citizens officers are not presently in any position to comment upon the sale or future sale. But one thing is clear: Douglas Glinden controls the disposition of the property, and he may still want to buy it himself.

What Dad REALLY Wants for Father's Day ... a

Weber Covered Barbecue Kettle

Dad probably hasn't told you, but what he really wants this year is a fabulous Weber covered barbecue kettle. His well-known barbecuing skills will be enhanced by enjoying the use of the original standard of excellence in covered cooking.

Why Foods Cook Better ... In a Weber!

Weber kettles cook better with reflected heat, which combines the economy of an oven with the zest of a barbecue. With the exclusive Weber cover in place, foods cook in their own juices -- stay flavorful, juicy and tender, even when "well done". A unique damper system controls heat to suit you, bringing out the matchless flavor of the finest cuts. Even less expensive meats are transformed into gourmet delights.

The Weber Principle

The Weber uses two grills -- the upper for food, the lower for charcoal. Air circulates all through the charcoal to distribute heat evenly, sealing in flavor and juices.

Weber Economy

Weber kettles are built to outlast ordinary barbecues, and what's more, Weber gives you real economy too! You'll use fewer briquettes to begin with; when through, close all dampers and the coals go out almost immediately. Dad will be able to use the same coals up to five times. Your Weber will practically pay for itself in charcoal savings alone.

You'll find a complete selection of Webers at Brinton's, starting at $32.95. You'll also find a complete barbecue accessories department to suit your Weber to your own needs.

BY PAUL SIDONE

Tennis With Gusto

In response to popular demand I have been asked to explain the phenomenon which is sweeping the Monterey Peninsula from the Carmel Valley Racquet Club to the Pebble Beach Tennis Club, from "Esquire" to the "Pine Cone" the word is out—tennis is in. I'm going to be frank. It's a tall order. You see Frank couldn't be here so I'm going to explain the mystique of the game with gusto. But Gusto couldn't be here either so I'm going to do it alone.

For myself, I'm known as a finished tennis player, "finished" some ten years ago, just after I won the 1938 Singles Title of Swaziland against the great Swahili chief, Nagoobi Nagobi Sana (My little girl can play the piana). It was after this match that the slogan for African independence was first hears, Uhuru or "Sidone G Home." The story of my meteoric rise to Wimbledon and Forest Hills, through the Panama Canal to Japan, returning through Soviet Russia is so well known that I shall get on with some hints for beginners.

The first essential for the potential Pancho is to buy a tennis racquet, a fishing net will do but a tennis racquet is definitely better. Imagine the handle of the racquet to be a hot iron. Grip it as though you were swinging the lead and let go, and in no time you will be hitting the ball into the net with the best of us.

Tennis etiquette requires that you wear shorts and running shoes with pink shoe laces. The shorts prevent your breath coming in short pants, while the running shoes provide "Soul" and for the life of me I can't think what the pink shoe laces are for.

Of course girls know all the angles about dress, though I personally don't care for angular women. White is a must. It makes the male appear clean-cut and the female virginal. Though now that the ladies have taken to colored confections from Carmel's boutiques, the latter category is a wee bit obscure. These multi-colored ladies make a tennis court look like a gala day, though not many local single male players, even from Pebble Beach, can handle more than 'a gal a' day.

Here now are the basic rules for the forehand drive: assuming yourself to be in perfect health or to be more exact, that your temperature is 98 degrees, respiration normal, skin entirely free from erysipelas, the mange and prickly heat, take up a position sideways to the net. By this we mean, your skeletal balance should be slanted forward like an ape, and your skull balanced on your spinal column in a way rarely excelled outside a museum. Keeping the head of the racquet above the wrist, swing the racquet forward, transfer your weight from right to left, keep your eye on the ball and think of a number from one to ten. It is the ability to do all this at once which distinguishes the chimpanzee from the tennis player. The follow through, as Darwin first noticed in the female, is higher than that of the male. Possibly this is because the female is normally 'higher handed' than the male.

For these observations I would like to acknowledge my debt to Huxley's "Elements of Physiology," Pasteur's "Diseases of the Dog" and "The Kinsey Report."

You can never forget the thrill of executing a perfect drive to the baseline, which not only brings confidence to your game but a beneficial effect to your alimentary system.

By the way have any of you students been to Lome, the capital of Togoland? All good tennis players know that there is no place like Lome.

Mixed doubles is the game however. Boy partnering girl. What a wholesome preparation for marriage it is! Play in mixed doubles can be very—intimate. I couldn't get that word for a minute. What the French call—"intime." I couldn't get that word for an hour. In the first set of mixed doubles, you jest and quip light heartedly. You charm and flatter. In the second set, when her return drive lands in the swimming pool, you "tut, tut" sympathetically. In the third set, you don't speak at all—you just brood. By the end of the last set the effect is that of utter desolation; your partner is dead. It makes quite a hit done properly.

Good books on tennis help. I do recommend 'Sidone on the Caledonian Twist,' 'Hamilton on the Love Game,' and 'Abramson on Court Tactics.'

I remember the case of the Scottish Davis Cupper I once coached. His name was Johnny Walker. I knew him well. Indeed we were related. You see his mother and my mother were mothers. Anyway the poor fellow became a slave to the bottle. He drank so much that when he bought a sweater from the club professional, he had to ask him if whisky made the colors run. Not that he was vague about it; he always asked for Haig. Whereupon I sold him my best selling autobiography, 'When the Swallows Come Back from Capistrano, Will my Service Return to Me?" In no time he was cured; his service came back and his swallows went away. He finally went on to greater things and became the tennis pro for the biggest club in Togoland.

Incidentally talking about Togoland, how is that you have never heard of Lome?

Here are some suitable exercises for keeping the tennis player fit.

Men, never neglect the opportunity to play leap-frog. Unlike the serious and commercialized sports of today, it is the one game which will never be professionalized.

Girls, if you can leap-frog to Beethoven's "Seventh," that's choreography.

Archery is another sport for girls which teaches hand and eye coordination. There is nothing more stimulating than to watch a pretty girl draw the long bow. As Shakespeare said in "As You Swipe It,"

"It would be a wonderful world
If it were more liberally girled."

$4,079,363 school budget adopted

The Carmel school board last week gave first approval to the district's tentative budget of $4,079,363 for the 1970-71 school year.

This is approximately $200,000 higher than the current budget, with most of the increase coming from a 6 percent cost of living raise for all certified and classified personnel at an estimated cost of $166,000.

Despite the increase, the board said there will be no increase in the tax rate of $2.72. The difference will be covered by an expected 7 per cent increase in assessed property valuation. With permissive tax overrides, the district has legal tax limit of $2.92.

While approving the salary raise, the board turned down a request from the negotiating council for an income protection plan for certificated and classified personnel, which would have cost the district an estimated $20,000.

The negotiating council also asked for a dental insurance program for all certificated and classified personnal at a cost of approximately $31,000. The board delayed action on this until July, when final data on income will be available.

The final budget will be read and approved at the board's next scheduled meeting on Wednesday, July 15.

Supt. of Schools Harris Taylor said the proposed budget takes into account the fact the district will be receiving about 28 students because of the closing of Junipero High School, as well as the eighth grade graduates from the Carmel Mission school. However, he said the over-all student population is expected to remain about the same as it was this year.

BUS GARAGE INCLUDED

The tentative budget lists an undistributed reserve of $462,000. From this amount will come an estimated $125,000 for the bus garage and fixed equipment. If the board approves the dental insurance program for all qualified employees, the undistributed reserve balance will be $305,953.

Included in the budget are $152,006 for principals' salaries, $1,801,438 for classroom teachers, and $126,905 for other certificated personnel, including librarians, psychologists and counselors.

Other projected costs: $133,466 for administrative costs, including salaries; health services, $28,623; transportation, $145,756; plant operation, $278,730; plant maintenance, $151,315; fixed charges (including retirement payments), $247,716; community services, $82,057; and capital outlay, $121,382.

In discussing the tentative budget, trustee Steven Sassoon suggested the district study the possibility of making the adult school self-supporting. As matters now stand, individuals enrolled in the adult school pay a $5 course fee.

The board also approved 4-1, with Sassoon dissenting, a motion authorizing the district to take funds, where necessary, from the undistributed reserve to pay bills in any expenditure classification where the 1969-70 budget allocation has been exceeded.

Petpourri

BY JUDITH EISNER

THE CAGED CAT

For openers, a short story: The Joneses, after careful deliberation, decided to acquire a kitten. Now, kittens can be acquired in several time-tested ways: one can buy a kitten, or adopt one from an animal shelter, or accept one of the neighbor's spring litter, or be followed home by a mewing waif, or awaken in the middle of a sound sleep to find a heartbroken, hungry, vociferous and emminently appealing catlet on one's front steps. Whatever the manner of acquisition, the Joneses found themselves contemplating life with felis catus.

The transition was simple, painless and joyful. Catlet ate like a horse, was box-trained with nary an accident, played with kittenish abandon and, sated and happy, curled purringly into the nearest Jones lap to sleep. The Joneses rapidly grew to love their pet and conscientiously had it inoculated and neutered at the proper time. Then, one day, after months of apparent contentment, Catlet was discovered sitting at an open window wailing pitifully. From then on, whenever a door was opened, the cat tried to dash out. Bringing in the groceries became a cat-catching chore; guests lingering in their good-nights were admonished to "Watch out for the cat!"

Unhappily, the Joneses wondered what they had done to turn their loving pet into a frustrated animal whose entire energies seemed devoted to escaping. They had sought to provide everything a cat could desire; what possessed their pet?

Sooner or later, every cat owner faces this dilemma. Ideally, as any dedicated cat book author will tell you, Puss should be kept indoors from the moment of her birth until her last, eternal sleep. Such writers go to great lengths convincing their readers—and themselves—that cats do not need to ever get closer to the sunshine than through a well-screened window. Unfortunately, 99 per cent of the cats in this world have other ideas, and sooner or later comes the day when the cat wants OUT.

As we have said often, our modern existence is fraught with peril for the free-roaming cat or dog. Enemy No. 1 is the automobile, which crushes to death hundreds of thousands of cats and dogs each year. And we doubt that even one of our readers lives so far from a road that his pet can be perfectly safe from cars.

In addition to cars, there are the dangers of other animals—cats, dogs and wildlife—and while your pet may survive a battle with them, he may be seriously mauled and torn. There are, sadly, still demented individuals who spread poison for animals, as there are unhappy children who torture them. Remote possibilities, but only remote unless they happen to you.

But the cat wants OUT, and he is spending his waking hours and your sleeping ones telling you so. What to do?

You can heave a sigh, part worry and part relief, open the door and wait to see if and when the cat comes back. Or you can attempt to leash and collar train your cat and take it for walks. You can also go out with the cat, into your yard or patio, and try to keep him in sight and hope to be able to recall him when he prowls too far. The problem is that cats, unlike dogs, have little respect for the strongest, highest fence and even less respect for your urgent commands to "come back."

Let's assume that you have accompanied your cat outdoors on his first outing. What does he do, this creature so obsessed with freedom? He finds a sandy spot, flings himself down and rolls with luxurious abandon. Next, he sniffs the rosebushes. Then he rolls again. He makes a clumsy swipe at a low-flying butterfly. Then he throws himself down in a sunny corner and takes a nap. Is that all??? You thought he had worlds to conquer, prey to hunt, mountains to climb! And should the neighbor's cat make an appearance chances are your baby will be scared half out of his wits. If all he wants is a roll in the dust and a sunbath...

Build him a cage. Ridiculous? No, quite the most sensible solution. Provide a safe, secure outdoor area for the cat, one where he can snooze in the sun, watch the birds, chase a butterfly, and still be as safe as he is indoors.

Such a cage—call it a "cat lanai" for euphemistic purposes—can be simple and inexpensive to build. Easy access can be provided through a house window which becomes a cat door. All you need is some lumber scraps, chicken wire and staples. A six foot square cube is ample for one cat; it can be made larger if space and inclination permits. The only requirement is that it be roofed over; otherwise, the cat will scale the walls easily.

It doesn't need to be especially sturdy as would an enclosure for a dog. Cats don't throw themselves against walls to escape; neither are they likely to burrow out. And once built, you can "furnish" it to make Puss happy.

A driftwood log, a tree stump, even a 4 x 4 post should be installed for climbing, perching and claw-sharpening. Some arrangements should be made to provide shade. This can be natural shade from a tree growing over the cage, or a tarp stretched over part of the roof, or a fiberglas sheet used as an awning. If your cat may be left outside in an occasional rain or wind, you can easily build a snug wooden sleeping box, enclosed except for a small hole cut for access and padded with an old pillow.

There should be provisions for a water bowl and, perhaps, a litter box. You can add these comforts if your pet will be spending enough time outdoors to warrant them. You should include in the plans a "human door," with a cat-proof latch so you can enter the cage to tidy it up.

Your cat will quickly learn to ask you to open the window for him, and you will enjoy being able to peek out to watch him, that great outdoor beast, rolling in the sand and taking a snooze, or stalking the birds outside the cage, to his heart's content.

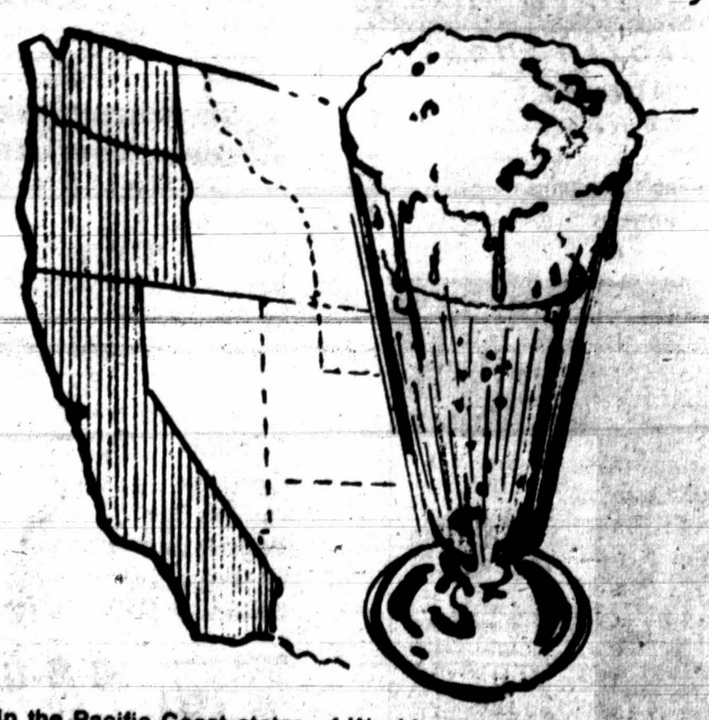
Beer Refreshes The Western Economy



In the Pacific Coast states of Washington, Oregon and California, the brewing industry pumps constant refreshment into the economic system. In 1969, for example, brewers in those three states made these economy-expanding expenditures:

- $35 million for agricultural products used in the brewing process.
- $90 million for packaging and container materials.
- $55 million for wages and salaries.
- $38 million for freight and shipping services.

As a dynamic part of the dynamic West, the brewing industry is a proud contributor to the economy.

CARMEL CLOSEUP

By JUDITH A. EISNER

The climb, to stardom, except in a few fabled cases of "instant discovery," is usually a long, hard, uphill struggle. Often, ultimate success is measured more in terms of dedication, determination and perserverance than by the talent one possesses. Many, attracted by the glamor and glory at the top, start the climb, only to fall by the wayside and pass into obscurity along the way. They lacked the drive, or the talent, or they really didn't want to make it after all.

Norman Zell wants to make it and he has a lot of things going for him. He has youth, good looks, education, and talent in the form of a sweet, pure singing voice and the gift of turning words into lyrics and sound into music. He also has Jim Damron, an articulate young man who is his partner and his friend. Together, with Norm creating and Jim encouraging, they are mapping an assault on Success.

Norm, Alabama-born and twenty-eight years old, began playing the guitar as a senior in college, and is entirely self-taught. His professional musical career began in Dallas in 1964 when he formed a rock group called the Five Americans. Success, in terms of national recognition came quickly, and Norm's songs started to hit the Top 40 hits regularly. Among them were "I See the Light," "Evol, Not Love," "Zip Code," "Sound of Love," and the Number 3 hit in the nation, "Western Union," which sold well over one million copies.

After three years of this, Norm left the group. It had appealed to the young "teeny-bopper" audience, and Norm's talent was growing beyond that limitation. He went to Los Angeles, to write music and develop his style—to find himself musically. There he also met Jim Damron.

Popular music has always created misunderstanding between parent and child. Be it jazz or swing, Sinatra's crooning, the raucous rock 'n roll of the '50s, or the psychedelic, amplified frenzy of past years, pop music has appealed to the young, to the puzzlement and often horror of the "old"—the over-30 group.

Today, though, due largely to songwriters like Norm Zell, popular and rock music are changing. For one thing, the trend in psychedelic, sensational, electrified sound is going out. "Music is going back to a more serious thing," says Jim Damron. "Kids in the '50s would identify with a movie star like James Dean; these days they're identifying with a rock group. Music reflects the attitude of the population --or some segment of the population. Now, to make it big, you have to say something," adds Norm. "Good music is always good music."

Norm, since moving to Carmel about three months ago, is writing good music, beautiful, slow ballads which, he hopes, will appeal to a larger audience than the teenage record buyers. He feels that rock music has graduated from the freakish, screaming cacaphony it once was into the realm of public acceptance. It is becoming important in movies, as evidenced by the sound tracks of "The Graduate" and "Easy Rider," both widely-acclaimed movies. The studios are no longer commissioning as many "scores" as they once did; they are using the rock music of today to back up their new serious, adult films.

What is happening in rock music is all part of the eternal quest of youth to find themselves. Songwriters are "saying something," to their young audience, and once the songs become established hits, the "square" entertainers, those appealing to the parents of the rock generation, pick up the songs. They may be differently arranged, they may not be as "pure" as when originally performed, but the fact is that they are reaching the over-30 audience, in acceptable form. And anyone listening to them, really paying attention to the words, cannot help but be reassured by their message:

Feeling noble and wise
Can't compromise
With feeling feeble and small,
Giving your all
To people.
Come on, people,
Give a little bit of your heart,
Give a little bit of your soul
To someone not fortunate as you. ©

During the '30's, the vanguard of change was singing "Union songs," and "dust bowl songs" protesting the inequities and inequalities of life in the poorer classes, and the leaders were Pete Seeger and Woodie Guthrie and Oscar Brand. The changes happened and are now generally applauded by Americans. Forty years later, American youth is preaching Love. And that Love, as spread by the Flower Children, seems to be an intangible that many parents, children of the '30's and '40's can't seem to understand. Simplified, it is a feeling and an attitude that transcends racial, religious, political and class distinctions. It is an appreciation and an awareness that all men are brothers, together on this little planet, and the knowledge that men must put aside their differences and join together if they are to prosper and survive. Nearly 200 years ago, a group of wise men wrote that "all men are created equal," and gave to those men the same rights. "Youth today is reverting back to those original premises and promises in their doctrine of Love," says Norm.

"I think what's wrong with the world is lack of Love ... you live a very short time ... and while you're here the only yardstick is your relations to other people," says Norm.

"Youth today want to be looked upon as individuals," says Jim. "I really have a lot of feeling for young people and I think they're going to make it. They want to be recognized for themselves ... they don't care whether they're rich or poor or what. Class doesn't matter to them. When I was young it was pretty well laid out for us; I was expected to do certain things, like go to college ... and it didn't occur to us not to conform to our parent's goals ... People are no longer clinging to heritage. They are trying to find themselves."

Jim coins a phrase: The Hair-Gap. "There's a lot of misjudgement that long hair makes you a hippie ..." and 'hippie' to most people is synonymous with lazy, do-nothing drifters. Norm and Jim have long hair but do not consider themselves hippies. "In order to live within a society one must be productive and I feel I'm being productive," says Norm. Jim adds, "I'm not working for IBM and I have long hair, but I still feel I'm contributing by entertaining people."

They are both delighted with Carmel and environs and with their reception by Carmelites. They say that they are on very good terms with their neighbors and with the merchants and this was accomplished once the people discovered that despite the hair, they weren't hippies. "I like everybody here much better than in L.A. Everybody's very friendly ... and I think there are a lot of beautiful people here. They have to be beautiful to want to live here ..." says Jim, who supports Carmel's determination to preserve its unique character.

"I dig talking to the older people because they can't believe that someone with long hair has anything worthwhile to say," Norm says with a smile. But the people are receptive, and Norm and Jim are good choices as ambassadors of the Hair Generation.

The effect on Norm's writing since he came to Carmel has been dramatic. "Norm has been greatly inspired geographically," says Jim. "In L.A. his music was much more depressing. In order to create beautiful music you have to be surrounded by beautiful things ..."

"You also need people ... friends ... they help you spiritually. And just being able to sit out there and look at the ocean ..." Norm agrees.

"There's so much that's frustrating today", says Norm, who professes no pat answers to national or international problems. "What saves us is that we're really involved in our music ... the problem is that all the kids today don't have their 'thing', they're still searching. And not all of them are lucky enough to find it."

Jim says, "There will be change. Everything revolves around honesty. If people can just look at themselves ..." Norm interrupts: "Take littering ... it's disgusting in this beautiful place. People littering constitutes a lack of Love ... People don't have respect for themselves, they don't love themselves ..."

Berkeley is a far out place,
Chicago but a game;
Panther's prowling nightly
Searching for their name.
And you know that we're not happy,
We're not satisfied.
But there's a change a 'comin'
Freedom on the rise. ©

It is through his music that Norm hopes to be able to work for change. "In order to do something, to change things in this country, you have to be somebody and have a power base. That's what I'm working toward."

To that end, Norm is writing songs and now has enough for a new album. The boys have a production company and Jim, in addition to his musical talents, will be working on the technicalities of record production. "Recording is where it's at. If you want to be heard you've got to record. We're in to making music," says Jim.

The Norman Zell Group, with Norm singing, Jim on the conga, Joe Ruddick on the piano and Ron Hudson on drums, is appearing every Friday and Saturday night at the Dutch Motor Lodge in Monterey, where they have been for six weeks. "Music is a lot like poetry; it has to project a certain mood," says Norm. "People today are always going to listen to a beautiful song."

Beautiful people making beautiful music. Not the empty-headedness one tends to associate with Hollywood-type stardom, but concerned, informed, intelligent young men, men with goals and dreams, men who are not afraid of hard work, men who believe in the future of their country and who are willing to work for that future and for their own. What makes them "different" from their parents and kindred spirits with the youth is that they know that they are better people for taking time out, now and then, to smell the flowers and the sea breeze. "We're just kind of trippin' all the way through."

Hot lunch program headache

Carmel school board members found themselves pondering one of the basic facts of life known to every mother last week. Namely, that you can lead a child to a hot meal brimming with vitamins and good nourishment, but you can't make him eat it.

This wasn't meant to be the issue under discussion, but it came up repeatedly as the board studied the possibility of increasing the cost of school lunches from 35 to 40 cents, changing from hot meals to a Class A bag lunch program at Woods School and starting a bag lunch service at Carmelo School.

Supt. of Schools Harris Taylor told the board that some change needs to be made somewhere, since the school lunch program is expected to lose about $2,765.20 for the current fiscal year.

As of June 1, he said, the Middle School cafeteria showed a loss of $102.95, Tularcitos had a loss of $742.29 and Woods a loss of $1,636.39. River School registered a profit of $455.66 and the high school was ahead $1,060.77, due almost entirely to sales from vending machines.

Taylor said the problem at Woods School is particularly acute because of its small student body (166 children). He said the food service department of the State Department of Education has studied the cafeteria setup and can suggest no way for Woods School to break even at the present price level even if it had 200 students.

To put the entire cafeteria program on an even balance, the school district offered two suggestions: increase the cost of hot cafeteria measls by 5 cents, which would bring in an estimated $3,200 in additional revenue next year, and switch to a bag lunch operation at Woods School.

CARMELO INCLUDED

Under this proposal, the two cafeteria employees at Woods School would also make sandwich-salad-dessert lunches for Carmelo students. One employee would stay at Woods, while the second would drive the bag lunches to Carmelo School and serve them there. At present Carmelo has no school lunch program of any kind.

It was further suggested that since grammar school children didn't seem particularly fond of hot lunches anyway - some cafeteria workers reported that half the food winds up in the garbage can -- sandwiches, fruit and cookies would make a popular substitute.

The cafeteria director at Woods School said she didn't think it would be possible to meet all the nutritional requirements for vitamins and minerals set by the state in a cold bag lunch. And unless the lunches meet these standards, she said, the district could not participate in the surplus food program.

And as for children throwing away hot food, she said that mothers would be aghast to see how many of their sandwiches and carrot sticks wrapped with tender loving care are tossed into the garbage can unopened.

One parent in the audience, Harold Grice, said he felt that most parents, if given a choice, would go along with a price increase rather than changing the hot lunch program at Woods.

Woods principal Peter Glod said he felt the matter should be decided by parents, teachers and the administration at his school, and suggested that parents be sent a letter asking their preference.

Trustee Richard Wilsdon said he thought it was too bad that the schools couldn't just serve hot dogs and hamburgers and other things kids like and let it go at that. However, Taylor replied that even the hamburger bar loses money at the high school.

The board decided to study the whole problem further before coming to any decisions.

the business scene in Carmel

By JAMES PETER COST
President, Carmel Business Assn.

For the past few years I have maintained that the most serious problems in the Carmel business community have been a result of inadequate communications.

The new editor of the Carmel Pine Cone has already concluded that the Pine Cone could be of additional service to the community by providing a means by which the businessmen could improve communications. They have offered this space to the businessmen of the city for that purpose. The offer is made under the single condition that we do the writing and with the single recommendation that this be a two-way system of communications open to all readers, that is not limited to the Carmel Business Association or the businessmen but to all readers.

To provide the opportunity for response and comment not covered by this column, the editors will publish relevant letters to the editor, thus opening the system to two-way communications.

Here is the opportunity we have hoped for. Let us all use it to help solve problems related to the business community. You are encouraged to put this space to maximum use. Please write me if you have news, information or comments concerning business in Carmel.

Now let me introduce myself. My name is James Peter Cost. I am an artist and local businessman. I also have the honor of being President of the Carmel Business Association. As such, I have been assigned the responsibility for this column. I will do my best but please do not expect masterpieces of prose writing. During the remaining thirty weeks of my tenure in office I will do my best to reflect the views of the business community as they are presented to me and as I see them. I will present both sides of any controversy equally and honestly. I will not hold back or pull punches in my attempt to present an honest view of business in Carmel.

Some of the topics I will cover are parking, of course, the Carmel "spirit," the shopping center syndrome, the amateur businessman vs. the professional businessman, the 64 art galleries, why visitors keep coming, the struggle against change, and the goose that laid the golden egg. There is an infinite number of topics. Many will be suggested by you, I hope.

Let me say for the businessmen of Carmel, we appreciate this voice and hope it will serve the purpose intended. If you have something to say about business in Carmel here is your chance to be heard. Please write to me care of the Carmel Pine Cone, Box G-1, Carmel, California 93921.

I hope through this column we can solve some of the problems that have been of annoyance to you. You will be hearing from me.

Carmel doctor to speak on 'Hypnosis and Drugs'

"Hypnosis and the Adolescent Drug Abuser" will be the topic of a meeting Friday, June 19, at 8 p.m. at Lecture Forum 103 at Monterey Peninsula College. Speakers will be Franz Baumann, M.D., and Peter H.C. Mutke, M.D., of Carmel.

Dr. Baumann, who is in private pediatric practice in San Francisco, has been working with adolescent drug users. He is vice-president of the American Society of Clinical Hypnosis, a member of the Mental Health Committee of the San Francisco Medical Society, and past president of the San Francisco Academy of Hypnosis.

Dr. Mutke, in private practice in Carmel, has worked with Dr. Baumann, and independently, on the use of hypnosis in the treatment of drug abuse. Dr. Mutke is a Fellow of the Academy of Psychosomatic Medicine, American Society of Clinical Hypnosis, and Society for Clinical and Experimental Hypnosis. He is a past president and founder of the Monterey Bay Academy of Clinical Hypnosis.

Because of "the timeliness of the topic," the Academy is opening this meeting to the public. In addition to physicians, dentists, and psychotherapists, educators and law enforcement officers in particular are being urged to attend.

No change in Carmelo School program during next year

Carmelo School will continue its adjusted schedule for the coming year, which calls for a minimum day on Wednesday to give teachers extra time for planning and parent conferences.

The schedule was approved by the school board last week after principal Phil Smith said that both teachers and parents have apparently been satisfied with the arrangement.

Trustees Richard Wilsdon and James Brock, who both had children at Carmelo, said they were very pleased with the program. Trustee Steven Sassoon said he had received a few negative comments from parents early in the school year who felt that the educational program suffered because of the shorter day,even though 15 minutes were added to the other four days.

Board members were given the results of a survey of Carmelo parents. In a questionnaire sent home May 20, parents were asked what had been the most rewarding experiences for their child at Carmelo this year, and what they would suggest in way of improvements.

Answers to the first question were generally enthusiastic, and varied from commendations of the math, reading andmusic programs to the excitement of field trips and special rapport with individual teachers.

On the second question, 34 our of 58 parents responding said they were satisfied with the program as is, or else made no comment suggesting changes.

Among specific suggestions offered were for regular teacher-parent conferences, greater discipline, stronger encouragement in problem subjects and an outdoor education program.

After reviewing the results of the questionnaire, trustee James Miller said he felt this type of evaluation is valuable and suggested that similar questionnaires be sent to parents at other schools in the future.

PINE CONE GETS AROUND

"You really have wide circulation," Doug Wilhoit phoned the Pine Cone excitedly from his employer, realtor Lou Conlan's office.

"We just got a letter with an FPO return address from a serviceman stationed in Southeast Asia, enclosing a copy of our ad for a motel, xeroxed from the Pine Cone!"

The letter went on to say that the serviceman would have leave this summer, wanted to establish himself before his duty tour was up in two years, and planned to be in Carmel to investigate the motel and other business opportunities Conlan's office might offer.

Stars gathering to honor 'Satchmo July 4 in L.A.

LOUIS ARMSTRONG

Presidents of the United States have hailed him as one of our most effective foreign ambassadors. He has played his golden horn for kings and queens. His gravelly voice has been heard by hundreds of millions of people throughout the world. He is "Satchmo." He is "Ambassador Satch." He is Louis Armstrong.

At this very moment money is coming in from all over the world to become a part of the Louis Armstrong Statue Fund. Who ever heard of building a statue of a man while he is still living? Who ever heard another horn like the one he plays?

On Friday night, July 3 a gigantic concert featuring many of the world's best jazz musicians will honor "Satch" at the Shrine Auditorium in Los Angeles. The proceeds will go into the Statue Fund. The City of New Orleans has already donated a plot of land near Louis' birthplace.

Hoagy Carmichael will sprinkle a new kind of Stardust as a Master of Ceremonies. He will introduce one of the largest congregations of famous stars ever to be brought together for any kind of a "happening."

July 3rd is the eve of Louis' 70th birthday and those present will raise their voices and sing "happy birthday" while Louis is cutting his birthday cake. Among the voices will be Andy Russell, Mahalia Jackson, Lou Rawls, Sarah Vaughn, Billie Daniels, and many many more.

There will be enough famous jazz musicians present to make up six bands; each band to represent a segment of Satchmo's musical history.

George Peppard and Jim Brown to play in Eastwood Celebrity

Hollywood's George Peppard and Football's Jim Brown have accepted invitations to play in the first Clint Eastwood Celebrity Tennis Tournament at Pebble Beach over the July 4th weekend.

Peppard, the only man who could turn down Melina Mercouri in the "Victors", brings a fine tennis game to the Pebble courts and an even more impressive list of film credits.

A super box office attraction, Peppard has starred with Audrey Hepburn in "Breakfast at Tiffany's," and in "The Carpetbaggers", and "The Blue Max."

Married to the beautiful Elizabeth Ashley, his current films are "H. Fleet, Robber;" "Cannons for Cordova," and "The Executioner."

Appearing at Pebble Beach with Peppard will be Jim Brown, possibly the greatest running back ever to play professional football, who gave up the ball for a flourishing film career.

Since leaving the Cleveland Browns in 1966, Jim Brown has starred in 12 films including "One Hundred Rifles" with a lady of some reknown, Raquel Welch. Brown's latest film, "El Condor" was made in Italy with one of Clint Eastwood's ex-spaghetti western adversary, Lee Van Cleef.

Brown, an active businessman as well as a film star, was an All Pro fullback every year of the nine years he played in the National Football League. An All American footballer at Syracuse University, Brown also ranks as the school's greatest Lacrosse player.

Peppard and Brown are the first of more than twenty film and television stars who are expected to appear with some sixty business and social leaders in the Eastwood.

Local residents already in the tournament are: Blair McDonald, vice-president, MontereySandCompany, Bill Fassett, owner of Nepenthe restaurant, and sculptor Malcolm Moran.

The entry fee of $100 and profits from a pre-tournament cocktail reception, and final day's fizz breakfast as well as from ticket and program sales, will go to the N.C.A.

The tournament, produced by Del Monte Properties Company, will be played on three stadium courts with scoring under the VASSS system of 31 points to win.

MAGGIE (MRS. CLINT) EASTWOOD and Jim Franciscus of the T.V. series "Mr. Novak" are among the field of celebrities scheduled to play in the Clint Eastwood Celebrity Tennis Tournament at Pebble Beach July 3-5. William C. Brooks Photo.

PARTY PLANS . . .

by Phyllis Jervey

When European-raised Mrs. William Evert entertains, this charming Carmel hostess does so with great ease and distinction. Attention to detail, everything planned to please the eye as well as one's appetite, is petite Glorie Evert's way. Exquisite taste is your "Party Plans" reporter's reaction when dining or lunching at the Evert's Spanish type casa overlooking Carmel Bay.

"How do you manage to coordinate your parties so that you enjoy them as much as your guests do?" To this Glorie answers with her gentle voice and lovely smile, "Oh, it is my natural desire to distract my friends with some form of entertainment besides the menu. In Paris we always asked young students with specialized talents, singing, ballet, musicians to perform for us. So I have continued this arrangement here in Carmel. It gives these deserving young people poise and confidence. Of course we have rehearsals first! After all, our aim is to entertain and not to bore our guests.

"In Egypt my family would sail on the Nile in our houseboat...dancing on deck, haunting music, gaiety...in fact, international entente cordiale."

"Do you miss all that exotic background, Glorie?" we asked.

"With my husband to walk by my side every morning on Carmel's beach, why should I? The beauty of our present surroundings has captured us completely."

Knowing that Bill Evert is a busy business executive, we asked what Gorie does when he is away. Horseback riding and tennis at both Pebble Beach and in the Valley. Voice and piano, gardening (roses are her specialty), swimming, driving and concocting new dishes to please her husband. These are a few examples:

Chilled Cucumber Soup

For just the twoof them, Glorie puts into the blender 1 cup canned chicken broth, 1 unpeeled cucumber and 1 peeled small onion both finely grated; 2 cups yogurt, salt and white pepper are next added. Blend well, place in refrigerator until chilled. Stir at serving and sprinkle top with minced parsley. In separate small bowls, pass assorted condiments such as chopped cashews, snipped fresh mint, white raisins.

Bill's Beef

Use only the best quality filet of beef in one rolled piece. In heavy skillet saute on all sides in butter until browned. Place into shallow baking dish, cover with small amount of dry red wine. Roast in 475 F. oven 5 min. (beef must be rare inside); add broiled-in-butter mushrooms at last moment. Bring to table, flame with warmed brandy. Frenched fresh string beans, a green tossed salad and their favorite finale:

Chocolate Filbert Souffle

One cup toasted ground filberts; 4 oz. unsweetened chocolate squares; 1 1/3 cups milk, 1 cup sugar, 1/3 cup flour; 5 eggs, separated; 1 t. vanilla; 3 egg whites, slight dash of salt.

Butter a 2 qt. charlotte pan or souffle dish; put 3 T. ground filberts in pan and shake to coat. In saucepan, melt chocolate with milk over low heat while stirring. Mix 3/4 sugar with the flour, stir into chocolate mixture, cook and stir until thick as pudding. In large bowl, beat egg yolks, gradually blend in chocolate mixture. Add vanilla and remaining nuts. Beat the 8 egg whites with salt until soft peaks form. Gradually add remaining sugar. Beat until stiff but not dry. Stir 1/4 of egg whites into the chocolate-filbert mixture, then carefully fold in the remainder. Pour into prepared pan. Bake on low rack in 375 F. oven about an hour or until cake tester inserted in center comes out clean. Serve immediately with whipped cream flavored with instant coffee powder.

Price of new school bus compound jumps $40,000

Detailed drawings of the new bus maintenance compound behind Middle School were presented to the Carmel School board last week, along with an estimated price tag of $123,200.

This compares with a cost of $80,000 to $90,000 that was projected a year ago when the district was planning to build the repair garage and parking area near Carmelo School.

Supt. of Schools Harris Taylor said the additional cost is due primarily to the increased cost of materials. The prices of concrete and asphalt have risen 17 per cent, he said, and lumber and labor costs have also gone up.

He said it will also be necessary to increase the electrical capacity of Middle School to supply power to the bus compound, which will be located at the southeast corner of the property facing the proposed extension of Rio Road.

In unveiling the drawings, architect Fred Keeble said the bus garage will be made of precast concrete panels with a pitched brown asphalt shingle roof, making it similar in appearance to the Middle School buildings.

The garage will be 17 feet high to the roof line and 28 feet to its peak. A 12-foot bank behind the garage will screen it from view from Carmel Valley Road, and Keeble suggested that a 10-foot fence and landscaping on top of the bank would hide the area from hillside homes on the north side of the Valley.

Keeble told board members that if they want a simple metal roof over the 45' by 200' parking area, which can accommodate 16 buses, this will cost the district an additional $24,200.

Taylor recommended that the board skip plans for the roof for the time being. However, trustee Steven Sassoon said he felt the board would be making a public relations blunder to have an exposed parking area.

It was finally agreed that board members would view the site from the nearby hillsides to see how much of the area would be visible.

TRIBUTES PAID

In other matters, the board paid tribute to four women retiring from the Carmel Unified School District.

At the board meeting, president Hilton Bialek presented a certificate of commendation to Dorothy Wright, who is retiring as assistant principal of Carmel High School after serving with the district since 1946.

Bialek said the plaque couldn't begin to express the district's appreciation for her outstanding service, but that "at least it's a gesture on our part."

Earlier in the evening, Bialek had presented similar commendations to Mrs. Betty MacGowan and Mrs. Theresa Burdick, who are retiring from Tularcitos School.

Mrs. Elizabeth Devendorf was also to have been honored, but the retiring speech therapist was ill and could not attend the meeting. She has been with the district since 1956.

On another personnel matter, the board approved the reployment of certificated personnel for the coming year. Among those approved for tenure were Tularcitos principal George Gustafson, Carmel High School principal Arthur Gumbrell, and James Halcomb, Assistant Superintendent for Instructional Services.

Other certificated personnel approved for tenure were Patrick Allan, Henry Avila, Phyllis Davies, Dolores Dresser, Elaine Green, Marlene Harris, Richard Hilton, Sandra Jordan, Linda Larson, Kristin Ogley, Gene Perrine, Thomas Sanford, Carl Schmuck and Nick Zanides.

The board also accepted the resignation of Mrs. Nancy Abbott, language arts teacher at the Middle School, who is leaving because her husband is opening a new business in Burlingame.

The board hired Mrs. Barbara Weingarten of Carmel as a speech therapist. Mrs. Weingarten has been an elementary and junior high speech therapist with the Pacific Grove school district last year.

On still another action item, board members accepted with gratitude the gift of a new Volkswagen engine, valued at $600 from Wester Motors, Inc. of Seaside for use in the auto shop program.

Two high school civics students, Nancy Brewster and Mark Spindler, showed the board a film on pollution they had made for a class project.

Slide show depicts Mexican Indians

Color and pageantry of the Indian state of Oaxaca, Mexico, will be the theme of a slide showing on Friday at the Sunset Center, when George Wallace of Gilroy tells of the simple yet dignified life of the inhabitants in the remote mountainous area.

Wallace and his wife Inger spent 11 months and traveled 25,000 miles up, down and across the Republic of Mexico. After four years teaching photography at San Jose State College, Wallace and his wife decided to go into rural Mexico to see what life was like in a much less complex society and to learn more about people with far less in material possessions and personal hang-ups than people of the United States.

After returning home, the Wallaces realized the slides taken of things they had experienced and liked could be grouped and put to music to convey something of the nature and feeling of rural Mexico and the people there.

Wallace writes: "It is only in recent years that Mexico has become accessible to American visitors and influence. Spanish colonial policies, the great northern deserts, and local uncertainties did much to preserve the country's cultures, customs and traditions.

"Even today, within a few hundred yards of any major highway, one may step back from one to twenty centuries into the past -- but now that the deserts have been breeched, and tourism and industrialization are developing rapidly, all this is bound to change.

"It is our hope to convey some of the richness, color and warmth -- as we experienced it -- of the areas we enjoyed most in Mexico. Foremost among these are the rural areas, and particularly those in the Indian state of Oaxaca, in southern Mexico."

ZAPOTEC INDIAN FAMILY in Teotitlan del Valle, Oaxaca, southern Mexico, separating chili seed from pods -- seeds make hottest seasoning.

One of the avid pursuits of the Zapotecs in Oaxaca is making of Mescal, a potent brew distilled from pulverized, baked cactus stumps. Clay pots are placed on mounds over fires that bubble 24 hours a day for the brewing. This process is a way of life and income for the Zapotecs and we have recorded the entire production on film.

"We chose color slides rather than motion picture sequences for their greater spontaneity in working with people engaged in normal activities and surroundings -- and better photographic quality in working with pictorial subjects. Also a greater supply to choose from -- more than 12,000 exposures made during the trip."

The show and lecture will begin at 8:15 p.m. and admission is $1.50.

'The Fantasticks' to be staged in Carmel Valley

Opening July 2, the Carmel Valley Inn in conjunction with the Studio Theatre presents eight very talented people appearing at the Carmel Valley Inn in a slice of life called "The Fantasticks".

This play with a Montague-Capulet complex in reverse which is now celebrating its tenth year in New York has been produced by more than 500 theatre groups in more than 30 countries. It surpasses "Life With Father" as the long run champion. "The Fantasticks" was written by Tom Jones and with music composed by Harvey L. Schmidt who later collaborated on '110 in the Shade" with an initial budget of only $16,500, it has become one of Broadway's strike-it-rich legends, as each $1,000 investment in 1960 has earned in excess of $20,000 to date.

Terry Eby, the narrator, is starting his 21st year of appearances. Among his most recent roles were those of the minstrel in "Once Upon a Mattress", Mr. Peachum in "The Beggar's Opera" and the narrator in "The Fantasticks" in the 1966 production at the Studio Theatre where his performance was the critics delight.

John Wilson, the boy, who is associated with the Civic Light Opera in Los Angeles,

JOHN WILSON

has just finished an engagement with the Doodletown Pipers. He left the Pipers to broaden his field of music. He has quite a versatile resume on theatre. Among his attributes are Curley in "Oklahoma", Sir Henry in "Once Upon a Mattress" and Don Quixote from "Man of La Mancha". After the close of the show in September he will be attending the San Francisco Conservatory of Music.

April Curtis, the girl, who has been performing since she was a child in Hollywood, is a graduate of San Francisco State with a B.A. in drama. Her experience is vast and unlimited. She has appeared in Hollywood all over the U.S. and toured Europe and eventually wound up in Bangkok doing Emila in "Otello". Musicals she has appeared in are "Music Man", "Gypsy", "South Pacific", and many others.

Reservations are now being taken at 659-2261 or 624-1661.

'Stop the World' launches Studio summer season

The Studio Theatre-Restaurant inaugurates its 13th summer musical season on June 26 with "Stop The World -- I Want To Get Off," the surprize success of the 1962-63 season on Broadway.

British entertainer Anthony Newley was not only co-author of the show with Leslie Bricusse, but also starred in the Broadway production as Littlechap whose encounters with women in various guises keep him on a romantic roller coaster. Anna Quayle played opposite him as Evie, epitome of the feminine mystique. Joel Gray and Julie Newman took over these parts in the road company.

The Saturday Review, along with many drama critics, named "Stop The World" the best musical of the season for its freshness and originality derived from the techniques of music hall, circus and mime. Newly conceived the role of Littlechap as a combination of Marcel Marceau and Robert Goulet staged for the old Palace.

An outstanding feature of "Stop The World" is its musical score, culminating in "What Kind Of Fool Am I," already something of a popular classic. Other hits from the show are "Gonna Build A Mountain" and "Once In A Lifetime," although several of the clever patter songs make greater demands on the principals.

Directed and choreographed by Bill Asp, with musical direction by Emma Sue Amos, "Stop The World" will play nightly at the Studio except Monday and Tuesday from June 26 through August 1. Reservations for all performances may be made at 624-1661 or 624-2321.

THE L.A. CABARET, the improvisational comedy group from Los Angeles, will perform their "Theater Games" at Carmel Valley's White Oaks Theatre on Friday and Saturday nights at 8:30 p.m.

L.A. Cabaret Improvisational Theater comes to White Oaks

This Friday and Saturday the L.A. CABARET will fly up to the Monterey Peninsula to do two evenings of their exciting "Theater Games", a unique form of improvisational theater. These will be this season's first events at Carmel Valley's White Oaks Theatre, a modern, beautiful and intimate theater that makes a perfect setting for the L.A. CABARET. Proceeds from the performances will go to Subud California, a non-profit spiritual brotherhood.

"Theater Games" -- created by Viola Spolin and outlined in her book "Improvisations for the Theater" -- are structured improvisations performed by skilled players. The audience sets the conditions for each game, and knows the ending. The games have rules, and part of the audience's enjoyment is seeing the rules followed. In all sketches the audience is witnessing the creation of creative moment, which, once passed, will never be repeated.

The L.A. TIMES says of "Theater Games" "It was marvelous." VARIETY calls the L.A. CABARET players, "nimble-witted and engaging." Says the HOLLYWOOD REPORTER, "They are real and special. They deserve to be seen by anyone seeking unabashed talent."

Tickets, at $3, $2.50 and $2.25 (for students and servicemen) may be reserved by phone (659-2786 or 659-2248), ordered by mail (Box 461, Carmel Valley, make checks out to Subud, California) or purchased at the gate or at the following shops: in Carmel Valley - Chrysalis, in the Valley Center behind Will's Fargo, 10-5 Tues.-Sun. 659-4014; in Carmel - Carmel Music, Dolores and 6th Ave. 624-9695; in Monterey - Abinante Music Store, 425 Alvarado, 372-5893 and in Salinas - Gadsby's Music Co., 342 Main, 424-6421.

Sunrise to Sunset

The Bach Festival Trumpeteers will be heralding this magnificent week starting July 17 before we catch our breath from June's busy schedule at Sunset Center. Although tickets are still available in Studio 3, the supply is fast diminishing, so hurry!

Our Forest Theater summer season for 1970 is also fast approaching, with a series of free Sunday afternoon concerts. We have some interesting events scheduled, and I will keep you informed of each one as it comes up.

Among the new programs in the offing at Sunset is a "Fun with Films" series. I encourage anyone who enjoys showing slides or movies of vacation trips to drop by my office at San Carlos and Eighth and set up a future showing date. We hope to launch this series in late June as a continuous year-round program.

Speaking of films, be sure to attend the George and Inger Wallace slide program of Mexico on Friday, June 19, at 8:15 p.m. This program is strictly a non-tourist view of Mexico, and presents not only a true visual story of their everyday life, but incorporates their regional music as well. Tickets will be available at the Box Office on the evening of the program.

During his next "Record Collector's Hour," Dr. Irving Greenberg will present two musical works from his tremendous record collection: Bach's Concerto in C major for Two Pianos and String Orchestra, and Haydn's Missa Solemnis in D minor ("Lord Nelson Mass). His entertaining presentation will take place in the Sunset Auditorium from 2:00 - 3:00 on Saturday, June 20.

Our summer series of classes offers a variety of activities. An introductory course to drawing and painting, taught by Bob Horne, begins on June 19. The three-hour classes will be held on Tuesday and Friday mornings, with all art materials provided. Intermediate and advanced painting continue to be offered by Bob Horne, and Art Guerra is teaching painting on Wednesday and Friday afternoons. In addition, classes in lithography and etching, life drawing, yoga, ballet, sculpture, children's art, and children's design crafts are scheduled. Call 624-3996 for more information and fee schedules.

It is our goal to seek out as much artistic talent as possible, and to share this enriching experience with you in the form of classes, workshops, concerts, lectures, as well as our monthly "Artists in Action" program on the first Saturday of each month.

We are also planning an exciting day for July 4, so please keep it in mind.

CARMEL'S VILLAGE THEATRE will present a special two-day showing of the unusual film "Mediterranean Holiday." Photographed in technicolor, the adventures begin in Sweden. Traveling aboard the "Flying Clipper," a three-masted sailing ship, the film visits nine Mediterranean countries, stopping at more than 20 ports. This film will play only two days, Wednesday and Thursday, June 17 and 18, at the Village Theatre on Dolores and 7th. Special group rates can be arranged by calling 624-5342 or 624-1442.

HIGH TWELVE TALK, LUNCHEON

Carmel's High Twelve Club will sponsor a luncheon and a talk by Bill Woodworth on "Environmental Data Banks, Pollution and You" at the La Playa Hotel Monday at noon. Woodworth is a consultant on environmental matters to Litton Industries.

The following week, on June 29, the Club will hear Dudley Swim, chairman of the board of National Airlines.

'Anything Goes' opens June 24 at Community Summer Theatre

To open the Summer Season on June 24, the Community Theatre of the Monterey Peninsula has chosen Cole Porter's musical hit "Anything Goes", to be followed by "Wonderful Town", with Leonard Bernstein's music, opening July 10. The two productions will then play an alternate schedule through August 30 at the unique Circle Theatre-in-the-Round, Casanova Street between 8th and 9th, Carmel-by-the-Sea.

"Anything Goes," according to Michael Keller, managing director, will be produced in authentic '30's style and features, in addition to the title song, such favorite Porter hits as "It's Delovely", "I Get A Kick Out of You", "Blow, Gabriel, Blow" and the inimitable "You're the Top": Adapted by Howard Lindsay and Russel Crouse(in their first collaboration) from an original story by Guy Bolton and P.G. Wodehouse, it played 420 performances when first produced. In 1962, it won the New York Outer Circle Critics' Award for Best Revival of that year.

"Wonderful Town" is the musical adaption by Joseph Fields and Jerome Chodorov of their own play "My Sister Eileen" (based on Ruth McKenny's stories), in which Rosaline Russell starred. Leonard Bernstein's score is filled with the swinging beat of "Conga!", "100 Ways to Lose a Man"; the melodic "It's Love", the nostalgic lament "Ohio" and many more.

Further information regarding reservations may be made directly to the Circle Theatre, Box AL, Carmel, or by phone to (408) 624-2669.

The Governing Board of the Carmel Sanitary District adopts the following regulation:

ARTICLE I - GENERAL PROVISION

Section 1 - Enabling Authority

This regulation is adopted under authorization of the Sanitary District Act of 1923, Section 6520.5 of the Health and Safety Code of the State of California, and Sections 5470 et seq., of said Health and Safety Code. The rates and charges prescribed by this ordinance shall be for the use and maintenance of the sewerage system of the Carmel Sanitary District.

Section 2 - Application

This regulation shall apply to any person, or persons, partnerships, corporations, and others connected to the Carmel Sanitary District sewage disposal facilities.

Section 3 - Separability

If any portion of this regulation or the application thereof is held to be unconstitutional or for any reason invalid, the validity of all remaining portions and applications shall be unaffected, and they shall remain in full force.

ARTICLE II - DEFINITIONS

Section 1 - District

Carmel Sanitary District

Section 2 - Board

Governing Board of Carmel Sanitary District

Section 3 - Manager

General Manager of Carmel Sanitary District

Section 4 - Real Property

Land that is improved or unimproved by dwellings.

Section 5 - Dwelling, One Family

A building designed for or occupied exclusively by a single family.

Section 6 - Meter

Water meter of the California American Water Company installed on the premises of the property owner determines the quantity of water used by the property owner of property other than single family dwelling.

ARTICLE III - SEWER SERVICE CHARGES - Section 1

There is hereby levied and imposed upon the owner or occupant of any premises within the Carmel Sanitary District, having any sewer connection with the sewerage system of the District, or otherwise discharging sewage which ultimately passes through the District Sewerage System, a sewer service charge as hereinafter provided:

CHARGE FOR SINGLE FAMILY DWELLING

The service charge for a single family dwelling shall be THREE DOLLARS ($3.00) per month.

CHARGE FOR USES OTHER THAN SINGLE FAMILY DWELLING

The service charge for all property owners except the owners of single family dwellings shall be FIFTY (50) PERCENT of the water bill charged by California American Water Company, with a minimum charge of THREE DOLLARS ($3.00) per month.

CHARGE FOR PUBLIC UTILITIES

Public Utilities will be charged an "in lieu tax" on the assessed value at a charge that would be equivalent to a tax rate that would provide for the total revenue requirements of the District during the fiscal year.

Section 2 - Unclassified Uses

For premises having a sewer connection for which a specific classification for sewer service charges has not been set forth in this Article III the District shall charge such rate as in its sole discretion it deems applicable for the type of use being made of the premises in relation to the uses made of classified premises and the rate fixed for said classified premises.

Whenever property owners have one water meter registering consumption of water for premises which have more than one connection to the sewerage system, the District Manager shall determine the monthly sewerage charge for the property owners served. The decision of the Manager is subject to appeal to the Board.

ARTICLE IV - COLLECTION

Section 1 - Collection Other than on County Tax Roll

Pursuant to the provisions of the Health and Safety Code the District shall make a contract with the California-American Water Company for the collection of sewer charges. The contract to be signed shall contain the terms as set forth in Exhibit "A" which is attached hereto and incorporated herein.

Section 2 - Delinquent Bills

Charges shall be delinquent on the date indicated in the bills rendered therefor, after which date a basic delinquent penalty of 10 percent of the amount of unpaid charges shall be due together with an additional penalty of one-half of one per cent of the amount of unpaid charges and basic penalty per month of non-payment thereof, which penalty amounts shall be payable with the delinquent charges upon which they are imposed. The amount of sewer service charges and penalties imposed thereon, as provided in this section, shall constitute a lien against the lot or parcel of land against which such charges have been imposed if said charges remain delinquent for a period of 60 days and such lien is recorded with the County Recorder; all bills rendered for the collection of charges as provided in this section shall contain a statement notifying the property owner of such lien.

Section 3 - Collection by Suit

As an alternative to any other procedures provided for herein, the District may collect any delinquent sewer service charges and penalties thereon by suit, in which event judgment therefor shall include the cost of suit and reasonable attorneys' fees arising from such action.

Section 4 - Penalty for Delinquency

If the rate is not paid when due, on the first day of each calendar month, thereafter a penalty of 10 percent of the delinquent rate shall be added.

ARTICLE V - ENFORCEMENT

Section 1 - Investigative Powers

District Representatives shall carry evidence establishing their position as authorized representatives of the District and upon presentation and exhibiting these proper credentials and identification, shall be permitted to enter in and upon all buildings and premises within the District for the purpose of inspection, observation, measurement, sampling, testing, or otherwise performing such duties as may be necessary in carrying out the regulations of the District.

Section 2 - Termination

As an alternative measure for enforcing the provisions of District's rules and regulations, District may, pursuant to Section 6523.2 of the Health and Safety Code, terminate service to the building, structure or property in question. Upon termination, the District Manager or his representative shall estimate the cost of termination and reconnection to the system and the user shall deposit this amount with the District before being reconnected. The District shall refund any part of the deposit remaining after payment of all costs of termination and reconnection. During the period of non-connection or disconnection, habitation by human beings of the property previously using the District's sewage disposal services shall constitute a public nuisance, whereupon the Board shall cause proceedings to be brought for abatement of the occupancy of said premises by such human beings. In such event, and as a condition of reconnection, there shall be paid to the District reasonable attorneys' fees and costs of suit arising in said action.

Section 3 - Liability for Violation

Any person violating a provision of this or any other regulation shall be liable for all damages resulting from said violation, or which arise from actions taken in the correction thereof. A violation of a regulation of the District is a misdemeanor in accordance with Section 6523 of the Enabling Authority and such violation is punishable by fine not to exceed One Hundred Dollars ($100.00), imprisonment not to exceed one (1) month, or both.

Section 4 - Relief

Any person, who by reason of special circumstances believes that the application of these rules and regulations as to him is unjust or inequitable, may make written application to the Board for relief. Said application shall set forth all of the special facts and circumstances and shall request the specific relief or modification desired. The Board upon receipt of such application and after such investigation as deemed necessary, may take action to grant such relief or modification as it finds necessary. The Board, on its own motion and without application, may, when special circumstances make the application of these rules and regulations a hardship or unjust or inequitable, modify or suspend the rules and regulations for the period during which the special circumstances exist. An application for relief under this section shall be in writing and shall be accompanied by a filing fee in the amount of Twenty-Five Dollars ($25.00).

Section 1

The Governing Board of the Carmel Sanitary District hereby declares that it would have passed this Ordinance and each section, subsection, sentence, clause and phrase thereof, irrespective of the fact that any one or more section, subsection, sentence, clause or phrase be declared unconstitutional, ineffective, or in any manner in conflict with the laws of the United States of the State of California.

Russian River is the main stream in Sonoma County.

What's in your future?

Life. You have it now, and you always will. Because God is your Life.

Christ Jesus proved this. He proved the continuity of life. He said, "This is life eternal that they might know thee, the only true God, and Jesus Christ, whom thou hast sent."

You can learn the meaning of this promise and how it can help you today by reading this week's Bible Lesson in our study room.

Carmel River fairly clean, except in lagoon area

The Carmel River may not be exactly pure, but it is less polluted than many persons had feared.

Sanitarian Walter Wong of the Monterey County Health Department released quarterly statistics on the river at a meeting of the Central Coast Regional Water Quality Control Board in Salinas Friday which showed generally low coliform counts except for some readings taken at the lagoon.

Wong said coliform readings taken from the river near Boronda Road registered 380 and 390 on May 5. The nitrate count was zero and there was only a trace of nitrogen.

The coliform count rose as high as 24,000 at one location at the mouth of the river berween April 13 and May 25, he said, due probably to late spring run-offs.

"Compared to other estuaries and the Salinas River, for example, the Carmel River is really pretty good," Wong commented.

Wong said the Health Department had issued about a dozen citations for improperly functioning septic tanks in the Valley, and that most of these have been repaired. The check on septic tanks will continue through the summer, he said.

In a move designed to protect the quality of Carmel River water, the Water Quality Control Board ordered the California-American Water Company to clean out all iron and sediment from its filtering facility at the end of Schulte Road and move it by truck to an approved dumping area.

Board member Jackson D. Brewer of Carmel Highlands and Supervisor Willard Brewer of Carmel Highlands and Supervisor Willard Branson said they wanted to be sure that no iron residue coming from the company's Schulte Road well would be washed into the Carmel River.

Water company engineer Wayne Millington had told the board the company was willing to ship out the sediment for only eight months of the year, when the river is not flowing.

The board ruling made it clear, however, that nothing is to be emptied into the river at any time. The board will monitor the filtering operation and require periodic reports from the water company about where the residue is dumped.
